“If the Ramones sung in Italian, or were Italian they would sound like The Dirtiest. These 3 buddies are one of the most exciting bands from Italy” - Beat in Bones 2018

Slovenly imprint Mondo Mongo - your mother tongues label - presents the first EP sung in Italian from Florence Italy punk finks THE DIRTIEST. On this follow-up to 2016's stellar and howling "Alarm" EP, they get drunker and dirtier, ditching the sonic caterwaul of yore, delivering four short and scathing tracks of Spits meets Ramones skate punk attack, making sure to note our insistence of using their native language on "Macaroni." Grappa hey!

THE DIRTIEST is a punk rock band formed in 2015 by Fabio Ghiribelli (Los Dragos, Billy Boy Guitars, Junkie Species - Bad Religion / Me first and Gimme Gimme) and Luca Cascino (the Nackers, EXP). The two guys from Italy got together in Florence as a guitar and drums duo and they ended up as a power trio later in 2017

In January 2016 their first debut single comes out on Slovenly recordings (USA). "Alarm", the 2 tracks EP, was released in 333 limited copies on black and orange 7" vinyl.

On the first hear "Alarm" might remind you of your worn copies of the earliest BLACK LIPS albums. A careful listen reveals a lot happening that makes these recordings stand out: blown out guitar string drag, gatling gun drums, and... fingersnaps? Or are those hand-claps? Or knee slaps? Take whatever it is, funnel it all into a wind tunnel, with an eerie air horn blaring from above, Luca & Fabio howling from below, and guitars jangling through to the end, and you get two slovenly tracks by THE DIRTIEST. Mastered in Athens by Nikos Lavdas. One month later KAT records (NL) released the 4 EP's outtakes on cassette.

Between 2016 and 2017, after a some change of line up, they turned into a trio and they extensively toured across Europe getting known in France, Portugal, Greece, Germany, Czech Republic, Switzerland, Slovenia and Italy. They shared the stage with well known punk bands such us Death (Detroit), Demon's Claws (Canada), the Spits (USA), the Clinic (UK), Third Sound (Island), Bazooka (Greece), Los Explosivos (Mx), Chronics, Cut, Magnetix, the Anomalys, the Rippers and many more.

They also played in the most famous garage punk international festivals like We are Loud (GR), Barreiro Rocks (PT), Chee Chak (Cz), Soundhalde (DE).

In 2018 Slovenly recordings encouraged the band to switch its lyrics for the next songs from english to Italian. The Dirtiest took up the challenge to overcome the common bands problem of not singing in English. The result of the experiment was very exciting and a new single was recorded with the help of Tim Warren of Crypt Records (editor of the famous Back from the grave compilations)

In 2018, on September 7th, Slovenly recordings released the new single titled "Cento shot". It's realized in 333 copies black and blue 7" vinyl. On this follow-up to 2016's stellar and howling "Alarm" EP, they get drunker and dirtier, ditching the sonic caterwaul of yore, delivering four short and scathing tracks of Spits meets Ramones skate punk attack.
